1.1.5.2 To know the meaning of words such as author, characters, theme and storyline [LO1.2]

EDUCATOR: Choose a well-loved story that is known to your class and read it to them. This may be from a previous class reader or a popular library book. There needs to be more than two main characters and a straightforward storyline.

The dramatic reading of this story should be between three and four minutes long. Use this as a demonstration of how to create atmosphere and captivate an audience with your voice.

LEARNERS: You will probably have heard or read this story before. Now you need to listen very well while you enjoy hearing it again. You will be expected to answer some questions immediately after having listened to your teacher reading the story to you.

Just to be sure that you are not caught napping, let’s check your vocabulary. Do you know what is meant by each of the following? Decide with the help of your group.

- Author
- Main characters
- Theme
- Storyline

Don’t waste any time! Grab your pencil and complete the table on the following page while the information is still fresh in your memory. Be neat and precise.

1.1.5.4 To enjoy listening to a story [LO 1.1]

EDUCATOR: Read a short Aesop’s Fable to the class and end off with the moral. Read the whole story once more.

LEARNERS: Listen attentively to the short story and then complete the piece below by filling in the missing words. The more carefully you listen, the easier it will be to decide on the missing words. Remember, be ready to start the exercise the moment your teacher gives you the signal.

NOW LISTEN ATTENTIVELY

A lion was sleeping in his den. A mouse ran into the den. It ran up onto the lion's head and sat on its paws. The lion woke up. It was very angry. It grabbed the mouse in its mighty paws.

“How dare you wake me up? I’ll kill you for this!” roared the lion.

The mouse was very scared. It said, “Please don’t eat me. Please let me go. I did not mean to wake you up. If you let me go, who knows, maybe one day I will be able to help you.”
When the lion heard this, it laughed. It thought it was a great joke. How could a skinny little mouse help the King of Beasts? But he let the little mouse go free, and the mouse ran as fast as it could out of the den.

A few days later, the mouse was out looking for food. It came upon the lion caught up in a big net. The net was a trap, set by hunters. The lion struggled to get free. But the more it struggled, the tighter the net became.

"Lie still," said the mouse to the lion.

Then the mouse bit a small hole in the net with its sharp teeth. The mouse chewed and chewed and chewed. Soon the small hole was big enough for the lion to put its paw through. Soon the lion had two paws free. The mouse kept chewing and chewing at the net, and soon the lion was free from the trap.

1.1.5.6 To show understanding of what has been read [LO 3.5]

LEARNERS: Now that you have the original version, check the words that you chose to fill the blank spaces with the ones used here. Then take a look at the five summaries of the story below. Only one is correct. Identify the correct one by highlighting it.

1. The story is about a mouse that proved he was as strong as a stupid lion.
2. The story is about a cunning lion that promised to help a mouse, but did not.
3. The story is about a clever mouse that helped some hunters trap a lion.
4. The story is about a clever mouse that helps a lion to get out of a trap.
5. The story is about a clever mouse that gets his own back on a cruel lion.

1.1.6 Assessment

LEARNING OUTCOME 1: LISTENING The learner is able to listen for information and enjoyment, and respond appropriately and critically in a wider range of situations.

Assessment Standard

We know this when the learner:

1.1 enjoys listening to different kinds of oral texts and responds appropriately (e.g. stories, fables, limericks, short reports);
1.2 discusses the central idea and specific details of the text and relates them to own experience.

LEARNING OUTCOME 3: READING AND VIEWING The learner is able to read and view for information and enjoyment, and to respond critically to the aesthetic, cultural and emotional values in texts.

Assessment Standard

We know this when the learner:

3.5 shows understanding and identifies and discusses aspects such as central idea, characters, setting and plot in fiction texts.

The brain is an amazing organ. No computer designed by man can beat it. You have so many memories stored within your brain. What you need to do for this exercise is call back some of your literature memories. All those stories you have ever heard or read need to be recalled. See how good your memory is by listing books, characters or authors you know.

1.2.9 To describe how you feel about a book and give reasons for it [LO 3.3]

READING AND VIEWING

Let’s see if you can use your powers of observation and put your opinion on the line.

In order to do this you will need to collect some book reviews (movie reviews will also help) from magazines and newspapers. Discuss within your group what a book review is and how you would go about making one of your favourite book. Decide what method you plan to use to evaluate your book - what scale (1 to 4?) and what symbol (?)

Now that you have all the necessary information at your fingertips, JUST DO IT.

What you need to do

• Choose your book
• Tantalise your reader with snippets of the storyline without giving too much away.
• Rate the book using your chosen scale and symbols. Your teacher will supply you with special paper for this task.
• Exchange your book and book review with your group members.
• After reading the new book, rate it according to YOUR OPINION.

1.2.12 Assessment

LEARNING OUTCOME 3: READING AND VIEWING The learner is able to read and view for information and enjoyment, and to respond critically to the aesthetic, cultural and emotional values in texts.

Assessment Standard
We know this when the learner:
3.1 reads a variety of South African and international fiction and non-fiction texts for different purposes
(e.g. poems, stories, myths, brochures, reference books and text-books);
3.1.1 reads independently using a variety of reading and comprehension strategies appropriate for different purposes;
3.3 describes feelings about the text (factual or literary, visual or multimedia), giving reasons;
3.11 interprets simple visual texts (tables, charts, posters, graphs, maps) and can change text from one form to another (e.g. graph to explanatory paragraph).

What you need to do

- As a group, decide on a theme. You could, for example, choose a author like Beatrix Potter and display a number of her books or you could choose a cartoon character like Garfield and display a variety of comic strips and annals about him. You could even choose a topic like gardening and display books to encourage gardening as a hobby.
- Collect your books/magazines/comics and plan your display.
- Supply information cards so that the viewer can be guided to note special details of your display. Your teacher will supply the paper for the information cards.

The quiz

- Set up the questions that your viewer will be able to answer from the information supplied on your display.

- Draw up a memorandum so that you can mark the answers.

FEED YOUR MIND AND SHARE YOUR SNACK WITH YOUR FRIENDS

What you will need

- Your favourite book or story or character from a story
- A two-minute presentation - no costumes at this stage (you will be timed, so practise this at home!)

What you will do

- Bravely present your two minute “snack” to your group
- Be creative and original – WOW your audience!
- Sell your product!

What the group will do

- Look and listen
- Adjudicate - make a grid, like the example below, for each presenter.

After every actor has had a chance to perform, vote for the Oscar Award Winner from your group. Cast your votes NOW. These actors then perform for the whole class to round off the “show”.

NEXT UP - You’ll have to do some homework.

Now don’t panic. All actors get to go home and study their script for the next day. Your teacher will supply the script (an Aesop’s Fable) and all you have to do is read it thoroughly. Be sure you know the storyline and characters. Imagine how you would stage the story. Practise some moves. For tomorrow you will have to discuss the scene with your group and pool your ideas. Yes, you are going to make the Fable come alive!

Tips

- Make use of a storyteller (narrator).
- Give every group member a part.
- There is a two-minute time limit.
- Energy and enthusiasm are vitally important.

1.3.5.8 Activity 3

1.3.5.9 To turn statements into questions and questions into statements [LO 6.2.4]

LEARNING OUTCOME 2: SPEAKING The speaker is able to communicate effectively in spoken language in a wide range of situations.

1.3.6.1 Assessment Standard

We know this when the learner:
2.1 communicates experiences, ideas and information in different contexts for different audiences and purposes:
   • discusses and compares own and others’ ideas and opinions;
   • uses interaction skills and strategies for working in groups;
2.2.5 responds to others’ ideas with empathy and respect;
   2.2.8 shows respect for others in the group;
2.3 uses appropriate body language and presentation skills;
   2.3.3 uses audible volume, pauses appropriately, and speaks at reasonable pace.
LEARNING OUTCOME 6: LANGUAGE STRUCTURE AND USE The learner will know and be able to use the sounds, words and grammar of the language and interpret texts.

1.3.6.2 Assessment Standard

We know this when the learner:

The dog and the shadow

One day a dog stole a piece of meat out of a butcher shop, and on his way to a safe place where he could eat it without interruptions, he had to cross a footbridge over a clear stream. Looking down he saw his own reflection in the water.

Thinking that the reflection was another dog with another piece of meat, and being a greedy dog, he made up his mind to have that also. So he snarled and made a grab for the other dog’s meat.

As his greedy mouth opened, out dropped the piece of meat and it fell into the stream and was lost.

1.5.5.7 To read and be able to respond to the information in stories [LO 3.1.1]

Read story A and then story B about THE THIRSTY CROW and then make your mark ( [U+F0FC] ) in the table on the next page.

THE THIRSTY CROW

Story A

A crow was very thirsty and wanted a drink of water. She could not see a pool of water anywhere. She flew round and round. Then she saw a big jug outside a house.

The crow flew down to the jug. She looked inside. There was a little water at the bottom of the jug. She could not reach the water with her beak. She climbed onto the jug. She almost fell into it, but she could not put her beak into the water.

Available for free at Connexions <http://cnx.org/content/col11092/1.1>
She tried to break it with her beak. But the jug was too strong.
She tried to knock it over, so that the water would run out onto the ground. But the jug was too heavy. It did not fall over. Now the crow was very tired. She thought she was going to die of thirst.
Then she had an idea. She saw some stones lying on the ground. She picked up a stone in her beak and dropped it into the jug. Then another, and another. The water rose higher every time a stone fell into the jug.
Soon the jug was nearly full of stones. The water came to the top. Then the clever crow had her drink.

Story B
The big, black raven wanted a drink. She saw a big jug with water at the bottom. She could not reach the water and wondered what to do.
“I know,” she said. “I shall put some stones in the jug. Then the water will come up to the top.”
After the first stone, the water rose a little. Then she put in another stone, and the water rose more. She put more and more stones in until the water came up to the top of the jug.
“Now I can reach the water. At last I can have a drink,” said the raven. So she had a very long drink.
MORAL: NECESSITY IS THE MOTHER OF INVENTION.

LEARNING OUTCOME 2: SPEAKING The speaker is able to communicate effectively in spoken language in a wide range of situations.
Assessment Standard
We know this when the learner:
2.1 communicates experiences, ideas and information in different contexts for different audiences and purposes:
2.1.2 uses language with ease for interpersonal communication in everyday conversation.

LEARNING OUTCOME 3: READING AND VIEWING The learner is able to read and view for information and enjoyment, and to respond critically to the aesthetic, cultural and emotional values in texts.
Assessment Standard
We know this when the learner:
3.1 reads a variety of South African and international fiction and non-fiction texts for different purposes (e.g. poems, stories, myths, brochures, reference books and text-books);
3.1.1 reads independently using a variety of reading and comprehension strategies appropriate for different purposes;
3.1.3 scans for specific details;
3.5 shows understanding and identifies and discusses aspects such as central idea, characters, setting and plot in fiction texts.

LEARNING OUTCOME 5: THINKING AND REASONING The learner is able to use language to think and reason, as well as to access, process and use information for learning.
Assessment Standard
We know this when the learner:
5.1 uses language to think and reason:
5.1.3 infers meanings that are not obviously stated and can explain how the meaning was conveyed.

SOME MORE AESOP'S FABLES (ADDENDUM0

The Dog and the Meat
A dog ran off with a piece of meat stolen from the butcher's shop. Crossing over a river on his way home, he looked down at his own reflection in the water. He thought the reflection was another dog with another piece of meat and decided he may as well have both pieces. But, as he opened his mouth to snap at the reflection, he dropped his piece of meat into the water. It was carried away by the river and so he lost all of his meat.

MORAL: TRY TO GRASP THE SHADOW AND YOU WILL LOSE THE REAL THING.

The Women and the Fat Hen
An old woman kept a hen, which, without fail, laid one egg every morning. The eggs were of the highest quality and the old woman was able to sell them for a very good price. "If only my hen would lay two eggs a day," she thought, "my income would be doubled!" So, she began feeding her hen twice as much corn each day. Unfortunately all this extra food made the hen grow so fat and contented that it became lazy and gave up laying eggs altogether!

MORAL: HOWEVER CAREFULLY THE FUTURE IS WORKED OUT, THINGS MAY NOT GO AS PLANNED.

The Hare and the Tortoise
The hare was making fun of the tortoise's short legs and the way he moved so slowly. "I'll beat you in a race any day," smiled the tortoise to the hare, who accepted the challenge to race. It was decided that the fox should choose the course and decide the winner. The race began and the hare sped off. The tortoise moved off very, very slowly. Soon, the hare was so far ahead and sure of winning that he stopped to rest and fell asleep. Later, while he still slept, the tortoise passed by and went on slowly to cross the finishing line.
All the animals cheered as the fox proclaimed him the winner. When the hare woke up and saw no sign of the tortoise, he ran as fast as he could to the finishing line. But, by then, the tortoise was the winner!

MORAL: Being slow but sure can sometimes defeat those who are swift.

THE MILKMAID AND HER PAIL

The milkmaid balanced a pail of milk upon her head as she walked home from the cowshed. She was dreaming of what she would do with the money she would earn from the milk. "From the milk I will make butter," she thought. "From the money I get from selling the butter, I will buy a lot of eggs for hatching and my yard will become full of young chicks. Then, when I sell the chicks, I'll buy me a new dress to wear to the fair." The milkmaid began to think how pretty she would look at the fair. She imagined how all the young men would come courting her, only to be sent on their way by a toss of her proud head. In fact, she was so lost in her daydreaming that she really did toss her head. The pail of milk wobbled and fell from her head. The milk soaked into the ground and soon disappeared, as did all her dreams of eggs and chicks, butter and money, her new dress and all her pride.

MORAL: Don't count your chickens before they've hatched.

The Mouse, the Cat and the Rooster

The young mouse returned from his first journey into the outside world with a tale of two creatures he'd met. One he described as a fearsome monster wearing a bright red crown. It flapped its arms about and scratched up the earth with its big claws. It threw back its head to give out terrifying shrieks from its big yellow jaws. "Oh, that was only old Rooster the Cockerel," his mother told the young mouse. "Well, he frightened me so much," said the young mouse, "that I fled in fright just as I was about to speak to that other creature who had a furry coat and a pretty face with such a friendly smile." "Gracious!" cried Mother Mouse. "That was the cat, our greatest enemy who catches mice and eats them up. Keep well away from the cat!"

MORAL: Do not judge a person only by HIS outward appearance.

The Fox and the Goat

A fox had fallen into the well and couldn't get out. A thirsty goat came along and, upon hearing the fox call for help, looked down into the well and asked the fox if the water was good. "The water is so good that I cannot get enough of it," replied the fox and invited the goat to join him. The goat promptly jumped down into the well and drank his fill. Only then did the fox tell him that now they were both trapped, with no way of escape. The cunning fox explained that they could escape if the goat stood up on his back legs, with his front feet against the wall. Then, the fox would be able to run up the goat's back and reach the top of the wall. "Then, I'll go and fetch some help and get you out of the well, also," added the fox. The goat did as he suggested and the fox ran up his back. But, when the fox jumped out of the well, he began to run away. He called out that he was in a hurry for an important meeting. "Hey, what about me?" the goat cried after him. "We had an agreement!" The fox did come back, but only to tell the goat: "If you had half as many brains as the hairs in your beard, you'd never have jumped down the well in the first place. You should have made sure there was a way to get back up again. I must dash away now or I'll be late for my meeting. Bye! Bye!" With that, the fox was gone, leaving the goat down the well.

MORAL: Always look before you leap.

Sour Grapes

The hungry fox tried again and again to reach the bunch of grapes hanging from a vine, high up on a fence. They were too high up for him to reach. So, he walked away, telling himself: "Ugh! They were not ripe enough to eat, anyway!"

MORAL: Those who fail to get what they want often become critical of that which they cannot possess.

The Wolf and the Heron

The greedy wolf swallowed his food so quickly that a bone became stuck deep in his throat. The wolf howled with pain, but no creature dared come near to help him. Only when he offered a rich reward did a heron take pity on him. The heron popped her head into the wolf's mouth and reached down his throat with her beak. She got hold of the bone and gently removed it, relieving the wolf of his terrible pain. Then, the heron politely asked the wolf for the reward he had promised. "Reward!" exclaimed the wolf. "Your life is your reward, for not many place their heads into the mouth of a wolf and live to tell the tale!"

Available for free at Connexions <http://cnx.org/content/col11092/1.1>

MORAL: EXPECT NO REWARD IF YOU HELP THE WICKED.

EIGHT WITCHES
Eight witches rode the midnight sky.
One wailed low, and one wailed high,
Another croaked, another sighed.
Throughout the eerie midnight ride.
One witch’s voice was cackly toned,
Another shrieked, another moaned.

2.1.6 Assessment

LEARNING OUTCOME 1: LISTENING The learner is able to listen for information and enjoyment, and respond appropriately and critically in a wider range of situations.
Assessment Standard
We know this when the learner:
1.5 talks about the sound and word pictures in the language and comments on their effect on the listener;
1.6 listens for information in different kinds of texts (such as weather reports, school announcements, interviews), recalls main ideas or specific details, and responds appropriately.

LEARNING OUTCOME 2: SPEAKING The speaker is able to communicate effectively in spoken language in a wide range of situations.
Assessment Standard
We know this when the learner:
2.1 communicates experiences, ideas and information in different contexts for different audiences and purposes:
2.1.2 uses language with ease for interpersonal communication in everyday conversation.

LEARNING OUTCOME 5: THINKING AND REASONING The learner is able to use language to think and reason, as well as to access, process and use information for learning.
Assessment Standard
We know this when the learner:
5.1 uses language to think and reason:
5.1.2 identifies alternative options and why and how they are different.

LEARNING OUTCOME 6: LANGUAGE STRUCTURE AND USE The learner will know and be able to use the sounds, words and grammar of the language and interpret texts.
Assessment Standard
We know this when the learner:

Suggestion to teacher: Arrange a musical presentation, either on tape or with the music teacher, to present a variety of atmospheres created by music. Inform learners about the role of music in movies, for example, tell how in the olden days of silent movies, a pianist was employed to play live at the movie theatre to help create the atmosphere. Do not use vocal music. Choose typical scenarios, e.g. The chase (Lone Ranger, Flight of the Bumblebee); romantic, dramatic, tearjerker, scary build-up.

You have watched many movies and the music has often been a pre-warning as to what is about to happen. You know when to hide behind your fingers because the music warns you that something scary is about to happen!

Once all the groups have performed, vote for the most successful presentation of a scary atmosphere. Discuss what made this group the best. The next time you WATCH a movie, remember to LISTEN to the atmosphere, too.

2.2.6 Assessment

LEARNING OUTCOME 2: SPEAKING The speaker is able to communicate effectively in spoken language in a wide range of situations.

Assessment Standard

We know this when the learner:

2.1 communicates experiences, ideas and information in different contexts for different audiences and purposes:

2.1.2 uses language with ease for interpersonal communication in everyday conversation.

2.3 uses appropriate body language and presentation skills:

2.3.2 uses appropriate gestures and facial expressions;

2.4 uses appropriate words and structures for different purposes and audiences:

2.4.1 uses language with the appropriate degree of formality (register) in different situations (tone, choice of words and style, body language).

LEARNING OUTCOME 4: WRITING The learner is able to write different kinds of factual and imaginative texts for a wide range of purposes.

Assessment Standard

We know this when the learner:

4.4 applies knowledge of language at various levels:

4.4.1 word level.

LEARNING OUTCOME 5: THINKING AND REASONING The learner is able to use language to think and reason, as well as to access, process and use information for learning.

Assessment Standard

We know this when the learner:

5.4 uses language to think creatively:

5.4.3 finds different ways to express ideas using a thesaurus and discusses nuances in meaning.

LEARNING OUTCOME 6: LANGUAGE STRUCTURE AND USE The learner will know and be able to use the sounds, words and grammar of the language and interpret texts.

Assessment Standard

We know this when the learner:

6.1 works with words:

6.1.4 uses phonics and spelling rules to spell words correctly.

Hammerhead shark. Up to 4 metres long. It is slate-grey in colour. It has a wide flattened body and an oddly-shaped hammerhead with eyes on the head and mouth underneath. It has pointed, very fine saw-like teeth.

Blue shark. Length - up to 5 metres. Its back is blue-black, getting lighter in colour, with grey-white underbelly. It has a very slim, streamlined body and long pointed snout.

Man-eater shark. Length from 3 to 6 metres (also up to 12m). Its colour is dark grey-brown to slate blue along back, dirty white underneath. The powerful rounded body has a blunt snout. It has long gill slits. Its teeth are large and triangular with saw-like edges. This shark is very dangerous to man.

Thresher shark. Up to 3 metres long. It is dark blue to light greyish-blue in colour. The body is slender with a blunt snout. It has a very long upper tail (almost half its body length). It uses this long tail to herd shoals of sardines, mackerel and herrings.

Smooth hound. Up to 2 metres long. Its colour is grey to grey-brown, lighter underneath. It has white spots on its back and slender body. Its snout is long and blunt.

Grey shark. From 1 to 2 metres long (sometimes up to 6 m). It is grey in colour, lighter underneath. It has a long upper tail, and only one dorsal (back) fin. It has six gill slits. This shark usually lives in deep waters.

2.3.5.1 Activity 1

2.3.5.2 To scan for details and follow descriptions [LO 3.10.2, 3.10.3]

A. Write down the names of all the sharks that Ann drew and then read her description of each one. Decide which label goes with which picture and put the right number by each name.
2.3.5.3 Activity 2

2.3.5.4 To identify main and supporting ideas [LO 3.10.1]

A. Answer these questions about the sharks in full sentences.

- What does the Thresher shark do with its tail?

- Which shark do you think looks strangest?

- Which shark is the most dangerous to man?

- What does a shark use its gills for?

Do you know any more about sharks? See if your group can find more facts and stories about them.

BECOME FEARLESS

Would you believe it that some people have a FEAR OF WORDS? It is called VERBOPHOBIA. I would like to ensure that you never suffer from this phobia. Here are some exercises to show you that words can be FUN.

LITTLE MISS MUFFET
Little miss Muffet
Sat on her tuffet
Eating her curds and whey.
There came a big spider
And sat down beside her
And frightened Miss Muffet away!

MODERN MISS MUFFET
Remains on her tuffet
And hasn’t been frightened away.
The spider, downhearted
And dizzy, departed
Repelled by her pressurised spray.

Isn’t that clever? You can do it too. You need to notice two tricks:

1. Rhyme: The poet uses the same rhyming pattern as the original poem. Lines 1 and 2 rhyme; lines 4 and 5 rhyme; lines 3 and 6 rhyme.

2. Rhythm: You can clap the rhythm and see that it is the same in both poems.

Available for free at Connexions <http://cnx.org/content/col11092/1.1>
Now you try these two tricks on a well-known nursery rhyme. Use “Three Blind Mice” or “Mary Had a Little Lamb” and see what fun version you can create.

The Greek gods created a woman whom they named Pandora.

When she was given life, she was endowed by the gods with every gift. Venus bestowed beauty on her; Mercury gave her the art of persuasion; Apollo donated the love of music, and the Graces trained her in the social arts.

Then Vulcan fashioned an exquisite box of pure gold into which were put all the evils that have plagued mankind ever since - disease, famine, pestilence, fever, envy, greediness, gluttony, hatred and intolerance. It did not seem possible that a thing as lovely as the golden box could contain so much ugliness.

As they were about to close the box, the gods and goddesses regretted their decision to punish Man. Although they were too proud to abandon the idea altogether, they added one beautiful gift that would lessen the pain caused by all the other disasters. This gift they called hope. The gods tucked it down at the bottom of the box.

Pandora was cautioned not to open the box, which was to be a gift to the man who married her.

Mercury then took Pandora to earth and left her with Epimetheus, who was so struck by her unusual beauty and grace that he gladly took her into his home.

Epimetheus asked Pandora about the beautiful box and what it contained, but she said that she did not know exactly and that it was to be a gift to the man who married her. She placed it on a table and its brilliance lighted the entire room. Epimetheus decided that he needed his brother's advice on the matter and cautioned Pandora not to look at the contents of the box. He set off to his brother.

It took him a whole day to reach Prometheus who, on hearing the story, suspected a trick and told Epimetheus to hurry back home and hide the box in a place so remote that no one could ever find it.

Meanwhile, Pandora was exploring her new home. She kept herself busy all day, yet each time she entered the house, the shining box caught her eye. Finally, as night closed in, she could find nothing else to do.

She took the box from the table and held it, turning it over and over, admiring its exquisite design. "Surely it can do no harm to open this lovely box just a crack to take a peep inside," she thought. "Could it hold a crown? A precious jewel? A magic cloak? A gift from the gods must be something beautiful and rare!"

She opened the box just a little and saw nothing. She opened it a little wider and at first saw what looked like an ugly brown cloud. Then, with a loud buzzing sound, hundreds of things resembling small insects escaped into the room!

Terrified, she tried to close the box, but her hands shook and she could not do it quickly enough. It was almost empty when she slammed the lid shut and only one thing remained inside the box. This was hope.

The Greek gods had succeeded in releasing their punishment on Man for accepting the stolen gift of divine fire from the chariot of the sun.

Today we are inclined to believe that our hearts are like Pandora’s box, because no matter what bad things happen to us, hope springs eternal in the human breast.

Did you get the facts?

1. Name three of the horrible contents of Pandora’s Box.

1. Name three gifts that the gods gave to Pandora.
1. Who was Epimetheus’ brother?

1. What was left in the box after Pandora had opened and closed it?

1. Why did the gods make Pandora so unusually beautiful and graceful?

1. Why did Vulcan make the box so exquisite?

1. What did the gods and Epimetheus say to Pandora to add to her curiosity about the box?

What do YOU think?

1. Choose two of the evils listed that you think plague our country today.

1. What characteristic do we all have which often gets us into trouble, but also helps us to understand things better?

CHILDREN LIKE ME
Module 12
I AM WHO I AM

All over the world children like you live their lives and have hopes and dreams. Just like you they want to be loved and educated and treated with respect. Children everywhere have the right to healthcare, education, food, shelter and play. And above all, they have the right to be protected against violence.

These rights are contained in the United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child, which nearly every country in the world has accepted. Your country has accepted this Bill of Rights. This document is yours and it makes sure that your voice (and all children’s voices) is heard and that you have the right to be happy and enjoy life as much as you can.

The Declaration of Children’s Rights

All children have the right to a name, enough to eat, and a decent place to live.

All children should be looked after when they are sick, and have a right to grow up with love, affection and security.

Disabled children have a right to special treatment and education

All children have a right to free education and should be protected from neglect, cruelty and exploitation.

All children should not be made to work before a certain age and should be protected from discrimination.
All children should never have to fear arrest and detention, and should be brought up to understand that their energy and talents should be devoted to the service of their brothers and sisters.
Activity 3
To write down your own ideas [LO 4.1.2]
WRITE YOUR OWN BILL OF RIGHTS
Hints
- What would you like to change in the present Children's Bill of Rights?
- What would you like to add to the Bill?
- What do you think children need that they are not getting NOW?
- Think of your own life and what right you wish you had which you don’t.

JUST ME
Nobody sees what I can see,
for back of my eyes there is only me.
And nobody knows how my thoughts begin,
for there’s only myself inside my skin.
Isn’t it strange how everyone owns
Just enough skin to cover his bones.
My father’s would be too big to fit -
I’d be all wrinkled inside of it
And my baby brother’s is much too small -
It just wouldn’t cover me up at all.
But I feel just right in the skin I wear
And there’s nobody like me anywhere.

Assessment

LEARNING OUTCOME 1: LISTENING The learner is able to listen for information and enjoyment, and respond appropriately and critically in a wider range of situations.
Assessment Standard
We know this when the learner:
1.8 listens actively in conversation and discussion, showing respect for and sensitivity to the feelings of others and appreciating other points of view.

LEARNING OUTCOME 2: SPEAKING The speaker is able to communicate effectively in spoken language in a wide range of situations.
Assessment Standard
We know this when the learner:
2.1 communicates experiences, ideas and information in different contexts for different audiences and purposes:
2.1.3 shares ideas and offers opinions on familiar topics from personal experience;
2.1.7 discusses and compares own and others’ ideas and opinions.

LEARNING OUTCOME 4: WRITING The learner is able to write different kinds of factual and imaginative texts for a wide range of purposes.
Assessment Standard
We know this when the learner:
4.1 writes different kinds of texts for different purposes and audience:
4.1.2 writes informational texts, expressing ideas clearly for different audiences (e.g. short reports, instructions);
4.1.3 writes and designs various media texts for different audiences, (e.g. poster, cartoon strip, simple brochures);
4.2 develops and organises ideas through a writing process:
4.2.1 chooses and explores topic and brainstorms ideas, using mind maps, flow charts, lists.

LEARNING OUTCOME 5: THINKING AND REASONING The learner is able to use language to think and reason, as well as to access, process and use information for learning.
Assessment Standard
We know this when the learner:
5.2 uses language to investigate and explore:
5.2.3 locates information, using key words or concepts.

2.7.5.1 HOW OBSERVANT ARE YOU?

- Think of someone you saw earlier today – maybe the Principal. Can you say exactly what they were wearing?

- Do you know the registration number of your teacher’s car?

- Do you know who is left-handed in your class?

- What make of television do you watch?

- How many shoelace holes do you have in your takkies?

- Which cash note has a rhino and ram on either side?

- Being observant means keeping your eyes open and being quick to notice things. Have you spotted the two deliberate spelling mistakes in what you have read so far on this page?

2.7.5.4 To understand imagery in a poem [LO 3.7]

CHILDREN, CHILDREN EVERYWHERE

Children, children everywhere,
children dark and children fair,
children of all shapes and sizes,
children springing odd surprises,
children chasing, running races,
children laughing, making faces,
children cooking mud for dinner,
children, every one a winner.
Children jumping, children wiggling, children grumping, children giggling,
children singing, sneezing, weeping,
children sometimes even sleeping,
children giving children hugs,
children chewing worms and bugs,
children in their parents' hair
children, children everywhere.
Did you understand?
1. What does the poet mean by saying “children cooking mud for dinner?”
   I think he means that
2. What does “in their parents’ hair” mean?
   I think it means that

2.7.6 Assessment

LEARNING OUTCOME 3: READING AND VIEWING The learner is able to read and view for information and enjoyment, and to respond critically to the aesthetic, cultural and emotional values in texts.

Assessment Standard
We know this when the learner:
3.7 understands the vocabulary and discusses the choice of words, imagery and sound effects in poems, stories and multimedia texts (e.g. rhythm, rhyme, alliteration, word pictures, humour);
   • interprets simple visual texts (tables, charts, posters, graphs, maps) and can change text from one form to another, (e.g. graph to explanatory paragraph).

LEARNING OUTCOME 4: WRITING The learner is able to write different kinds of factual and imaginative texts for a wide range of purposes.

Assessment Standard
We know this when the learner:
4.1 writes different kinds of texts for different purposes and audience:
   4.1.3 writes and designs various media texts for different audiences, (e.g. poster, cartoon strip, simple brochures).

Let us take a look at some children from different countries and find out if this is true.

When you have finished reading about the children, you will need to complete a table to help you remember the information.

THAILAND

Traditionally, young men in Thailand spend some time studying to become Buddhist monks. They are called novices and some spend only a few weeks at the temple, while others choose to be monks for the rest of their lives.

In the temple, the novices spend time meditating on the teaching of Buddha.

Thai Buddhist monks wear flowing, saffron-coloured robes. The robes are made of two pieces of cloth, worn with a sash around the waist. The novices have their heads and eyebrows shaved once a month. Their hair may not grow more than 2cm long.

One young novice says that he likes being barefoot as it is necessary to take off your shoes for eating and praying and he never remembers where he has put his sandals. He has no toys, but likes to play soccer with the other novices and may watch television once a week, but does not really like TV. There are many cats at the temple, but he prefers dogs.

ISRAEL

If you are a Jew, you believe in one God and live your life according to rules laid down in the Jewish holy book, which is called the Torah. It contains 613 commandments, which include which kinds of food Jews should eat.

Jewish children learn Hebrew even though they might speak English. On Friday evenings the boys and men go to the synagogue (meeting place) to worship and study religious texts. The girls and women prepare the special Shabbat meal at home. On the Shabbat, they must not do any work or switch on electrical equipment. They may bath, but must not wash their hair.

Their religion teaches that boys must keep their hair short. The boys and men wear a small cap called a kippah on the back of their heads, kept on with clips.

Available for free at Connexions <http://cnx.org/content/col11092/1.1>
One typical Jewish boy in Israel says he likes to wear running shoes except when it is really cold and then he wears boots. He loves playing on the computer and his favourite lessons are gymnastics and religion. When he grows up he would like to be a computer engineer.

INDIA

The religion followed by many Indians, is Hinduism. Hindus believe that the spirit of God is in everything in the world – animals, plants and humans. It is wrong to hurt any living thing. When a person dies, their soul returns inside the body of another person or animal. This is called reincarnation.

Indian women wear saris, which are a long piece of cloth wound round the body and draped over the shoulder. It is worn over a short blouse.

One young Indian girl has a pet goat. She doesn’t like dogs as she thinks they will bite her. She walks to school and enjoys her lessons, especially the ones about Mahatma Ghandi as she considers him to have been a great man.

She wears sandals called chappals (beach thongs) and likes her long hair to be pulled straight back. She is a vegetarian and does not eat meat, but does eat fish. This Indian girl of nine hates the smell of dirty water and would like to make all water clean and everything in the world cheaper.

EGYPT

Most people in Egypt are Muslim and worship at a mosque. The Muslim holy book is called the Qur’an. Most Muslim women pray at home and when they go to their mosque, they enter through an entrance different to the men. The ninth month, Ramadan, is a holy month for Muslims, during which they avoid all food and drink between sunrise and sunset. To celebrate the end of Ramadan, they have a feast when they give thanks to Allah for his help during the fast.
One young Egyptian boy says his surname means ‘Slave of God’ and he hopes to grow up to be a policeman. Like all Muslim children the world over, he learns classical Arabic to read the Qur’an and say his prayers. He loves playing soccer and he wishes there wasn’t so much traffic so that there would be less dirt and pollution. His favourite food is strawberries.

TANZANIA
The Masai people of East Africa are traditionally nomads, but today are settling in permanent homes. Masai communities live in a group of huts called an enjang, which means homestead. The Masai wear brightly coloured pieces of cloth called rubeka and they make their own sandals called namuka. Young Masai children have the top parts of their ears pierced as well as their earlobes. Masai women and girls wear colourful necklaces depending on how old they are.

One young Masai girl tells how she has two names. She is a Christian and goes to church with her family every Sunday. She has a Christian name and a Masai name which means ‘girl child who is loved most by her parents.’ She wears a uniform to school and has all her lessons taught in Swahili, which is the main language of Tanzania. She makes toys from soft clay and a ball by wrapping grass around a wild tomato. She would like to be a teacher when she grows up and hates having to walk the six kilometres every day to fetch water.

CHINA
More than a billion people live in China, and the Government is worried that there will not be enough food and land for everyone if the population grows any bigger. So these days most families have only one child. Chinese people put their family name first and their ‘given’ name second.

One young Chinese girl says her ‘given’ name means ‘big-hearted, happy and clean.’ When she grows up, she wants to be a handicraft teacher because she loves making things. Her favourite colour is red, which is a popular colour in China as it is associated with happiness and joy. Her school uniform is a red tracksuit. She loves reading and watching cartoons on TV. Her favourite food is rice and she does not like meat, but prefers fish.

2.9.5.1 Activity 1

2.9.5.2 To do research [LO 3.12]

Let us take a look at how children all around the world celebrate special events in their lives. Try to find out how the day originated and what people do to celebrate that special day. Make notes about what you find.

1. MOTHER’S DAY
2. EID UL-FITR
3. HALLOWEEN
4. HANUKKAH
5. DIWALI
6. CHRISTMAS

(A book that will be of huge help to you with this exercise is “Children Just Like Me CELEBRATION!” by Barnabas and Anabel Kindersley)

FOR THE EDUCATOR: You might like to make this a group project. Maybe you have children of different religions in your class who would be able to give first hand information on these topics. Or you could invite guest speakers. Make this as much fun as possible with the opportunity to SHOW AND TELL and to DRESS UP and to EAT and to MAKE decorations and cards or invitations for each occasion. You could do the research this term and do the traditional celebration in the term in which it occurs.

2.9.5.4 To read and relate the text to own experience [LO 1.2]

Listen to the following poem about MOTHER’S DAY and then answer the questions by highlighting the best answer supplied below.

- Here is the poem about Mother’s Day for you to read and enjoy.

ON MOTHER’S DAY
On Mother’s Day we got up first,
so full of plans we almost burst.
We started breakfast right away
as our surprise for Mother’s Day.
We picked some flowers, then hurried back to make the coffee - rather black.
We wrapped our gifts and wrote a card and boiled the eggs - a little hard.
And then we sang a serenade,
which burned the toast, I am afraid.
But Mother said, amidst our cheers,
“Oh, what a big surprise, my dears.
I’ve not had such a treat in years.”
And she was smiling to her ears!

Aileen Fisher

4 the Ants came their usual last.
5 They didn’t win one single medal.
6 Not that that’s a surprise.
7 The reason was not for lack of trying
8 But more their unfortunate size.
9 While the cheetahs won most of the sprinting
10 And the hippos won putting the shot,
11 The Ants tried sprinting but couldn’t,
12 And tried to put but could not.
13 It was sad for the Ant’s cause they’re sloggers
14 They turn out for every event
15 With their shorts and their bright orange tee-shirts,
16 Their athletes are proud that they’re sent.
17 They came last in the long-distance running,
18 though they say they might have come first.
19 And they might if the other sixty-one teams
20 Hadn’t put in a finishing burst.
21 But each year they turn up regardless.
22 They’re popular in the parade.
23 The other teams whistle and cheer them,
24 Aware of the journey they’ve made.
25 For the Jungle Olympics in August,
26 They have to set off New Year’s Day.
27 They didn’t arrive the year before last.
28 They set off but went the wrong way.
29 So long as they try there’s reason.
30 After all, it’s only a sport.
31 They’ll be back next year to bring up the rear,

• Educator to read to the class.

The Animal Olympics

The animals held a meeting once a year, they told one another all their news and then they had a gigantic party.

This year they decided to hold the Animal Olympics. The elephant suggested that they all meet back there in one week’s time.

“Then all of us can participate and attempt to win a gold medal.”
All the animals were so excited with this idea and they ran off at once to practise!
They tried so hard! They practised the high jump, long jump, javelin and pole vault. The monkeys’ attempt to throw the discus and shot put wasn’t successful.

Finally, it was the day of the Animal Olympic Games. All the animals were smartly dressed in their sports clothes, except Tommy Tortoise. He stood all alone, very sad and forlorn. “I’ve practised everyday, but I’m too slow to take part in any event,” he sobbed.

“Don’t worry, we need someone to fire the starting pistol and time the races,” said the hippo.
This cheered Tommy Tortoise up and he plodded off to the starting point. The cheetah suddenly began to sniff.

“Why are you also crying?” asked the hippo.
“If I take part, I shall win all the races, because I am the fastest animal in the world,” sobbed the cheetah.
“It will not be any fun.”
“That’s no problem! I have the perfect solution for a fast runner like you. You can carry the Olympic torch and start the games.”

The cheetah was positively delighted and stopped crying.
The Animal Olympics began and it lasted all day. Everyone went home very late proudly displaying the medal they had won for one event or another. All the animals were exhausted, especially the tortoise and the cheetah!

Let’s read and enjoy:

How Tennis Began

Tennis is one of the oldest sports. The ancient Egyptians, Greeks and Persians played a similar game. Long after these people French and English royalty and nobility played an indoor game called court tennis or royal tennis. The name “tennis” is said to have come from the French expression “Tenez!” (meaning “take”).

In 1873 a British army officer, Major Wingfield, introduced a racket-and-ball game he called Sphairistikè or lawn tennis at a garden party in Wales. It was played on a court shaped like an hourglass and divided by a high-hung net. It required speed, agility, and a great deal of accuracy in hitting the ball. It quickly became popular with English youth.

Shortly after lawn tennis was introduced in Britain, an English army officer who was ordered to duty in Bermuda took along some balls and rackets. The game became popular there, too. When an American girl, Mary Outerbridge, visited the island and saw tennis played, she became very enthusiastic. She purchased some equipment and took it home to New York.

Miss Outerbridge hoped to interest her friends in the new game but the girls did not like it initially. They thought that it was not very ladylike to leap and dash about the court. But the boys, specially her brothers, thought it was a great sport. Gradually tennis spread throughout the eastern United States and Canada.

5.2.4 classifies things according to criteria;
5.2.5 identifies similarities and differences between things;
5.2.6 distinguishes parts from the whole;
5.2.8 expresses opinions and gives reasons for them.

3.4.6 Memorandum

3.4.7 ACTIVITY 1

Treat writing as a process, and use developing knowledge of language structure and use.

Learner must write a script, dramatise it and then perhaps fill in the bubbles properly. Let them write down the speech in PENCIL first.

Let them know that when writing dialogue, they need to leave a space open between speakers AND that a new speaker requires a new line. This is different from writing in bubbles, where punctuation should really be correct and interesting.

Ask them to avoid slang and contractions if possible. This will make a difference to the finished product!

ACTIVITY 2

We all know these tongue twisters! Have fun with tongue twisters by seeing how quickly they can be read/said – without getting confused! They are found in the learners’ module.

Discuss with the learners

- what makes this kind of poetry unique
- the style of this kind of poetry
- rhyme
- alliteration

Available for free at Connexions <http://cnx.org/content/col11092/1.1>
Encourage the learners to find other tongue twisters and to bring them to class to read or recite. This kind of poem lends itself to lots of fun – and ultimately the pupils will enjoy poetry. Groups of learners, reciting or reading tongue twisters, can compete against each other.

Encourage the learners to display their choices on the pinboard, or allow them to paste their tongue twister onto an extra page in their unit of work.

Poetry is for enjoyment. Keep this in mind at all times.

ACTIVITY 3
Finding out about interviewing:
Now give them the instructions:
Work with a partner:
One of you is the interviewer and must interview the other.
You may select topics of your own.
Use current news stories.
You may only use 1 prop each.

Allow the learners to complete the checklist below, before presenting their interview to the rest of the class.

Remember that it is never easy interviewing someone. It is a skill that needs to be practised. Allow the learners to practise in class – so that you can help if necessary. It is simple if you allow half the class to practise at one time (a bit noisy!) while the other half of the class ‘tutors’ them.

The following checklist can be put up on newsprint, on the chalkboard or even handed out to the learners, before the time. This serves as a guide while they are working in their groups.

The Wobblefluffs & Skinnibones

The Skinnibones are extremely tall people. They are diligent workers and have the ability to work very quickly. They talk very fast when they speak and tend to leave out words. They stand up when they eat and munch away very quickly. Skinnibones sleep in narrow, firm beds and enjoy sitting on wooden chairs that are rather hard. Their land is very unusual – there are no sweet and cake shops. Their buses don’t have any seats. Their motto is “Time and wait for no man!” When they make an appointment it is verbalised to the very second, e.g. eighteen minutes and four seconds past two.

Available for free at Connexions <http://cnx.org/content/col11092/1.1>
In contrast, the Wobblefluffs never get angry or sad. They take their time in all their activities, enjoy sharing jokes, laughing and talking about food. Wobblefluffs eat a meal every hour and call this their ‘hourly snack!’ After their meal, they have an hourly nap. Their love of food contributes to their large size. The only reason they get angry is because they dislike the evil ways of the Skinnibones.

QUESTIONS

1. The Skinnibones look different from the Wobblefluffs because they
   (a) are hard workers.
   (b) speak quickly.
   (c) are tall and thin.

2. What is the difference in the way Wobblefluffs and Skinnibones move?
   (a) Skinnibones work quickly and Wobblefluffs work slowly.
   (b) Skinnibones move quickly and Wobblefluffs take their time.
   (c) Wobblefluffs move very quickly in all they do.

3. The buses for Skinnibones
   (a) have narrow and hard seats.
   (b) have no place for people to stand and stretch their legs.
   (c) don’t have any seats.

How do Skinnibones make appointments?

- Skinnibones plan their meeting times down to the last second.
- They enjoy telling jokes during meetings.
- They are very reliable and keep their appointment times.

Answer True or False.
• The Wobblefluffs enjoy sleeping in firm beds.
• The Wobblefluffs eat every hour.
• You will find an abundance of sweet shops in the Skinnibones land.
• The Wobblefluffs leave out words when they tell jokes.
• The Wobblefluffs dislike the Skinnibones because they are so wicked.
• The Skinnibones pass their time by talking about food.

Heracles

Many years ago in the land of Castalia, word spread that the King and Queen were expecting a little baby. Everyone was overjoyed to hear the news, except a young servant, Alcmene, who worked in the palace. Alcmene’s husband had died in the war and she was sad because she would never have a child of her own.

The gods on Mount Olympus noticed how sad she was, especially Zeus, who was the most powerful god. Zeus felt compassion for her and granted Alcmene the child she had always longed for.

Alcmene proudly held her baby in her arms and said, “You’re such a big strong boy. I’m going to name you Heracles.”

The Three Bears – the latest edition!

Panorama – James Jenson and Craig Cooper knew the fairy story of the three bears but they felt it was a bit far-fetched.

James and Craig, two very hard-working loggers were working in the forest on Panorama Island. They chopped down an enormous cedar tree.

A large bear appeared ferociously out of the hollow trunk when the tree crashed to the ground.

“She must have gone inside the trunk to hibernate,” said Jenson.

Jenson heard noises, and when he investigated he saw three darling little bear cubs inside.

The men left the bear cubs in peace, hoping that their mother would return for them. Eventually, Craig took them home and fed them milk, water and egg yolk, with honey for dessert.

The cubs were taken to the Tygerberg Zoo. They will become a feature attraction at the children’s zoo.

DIRECT SPEECH
If you are writing down the exact words that someone is saying, it is called DIRECT SPEECH. Words that are spoken are put inside inverted commas.
Here are some examples:

   - “I love you so much, Heracles,” said Alcmene.
   - “I enjoyed my birthday party,” said the Wobblefluff.

A soft breeze was blowing in Shadyhanger and it carried the sweet scent of strawberries through the open window of Tucker's cottage at the base of the oak tree.

Tucker had woken up very early. He was searching for his special gloves because he decided to go strawberry picking. The ground felt warm and the sun was shining brightly in the sky.

Tucker set off with his blue berry-barrow in the direction of the strawberry patch. His little mouth began to water when he saw row upon row of fat, juicy strawberries. Tucker used his thick gloves to pick a large strawberry and then he bit into it to test if it was ripe. It was! He took another bite . . . just to make sure . . . and then another . . . until there was nothing left. Tucker was very full!

Just then, over by the hedge, he noticed an enormous strawberry. It was going to be a special treat, "That's the one I'll take home in my berry-barrow." he said.

He pulled and pulled with all his might but the strawberry wouldn't budge! Suddenly the strawberry began to shake violently. Tucker felt his hands slipping out of his gloves. He was sailing through the air and then he landed on the grass with a "BUMP".

"What an unusual strawberry", thought Tucker feeling rather giddy.

Tucker waited until the world had stopped going round.

"It feels like my nap-time," he said hurrying home.

He was drifting off to sleep when he remembered he had left his gloves behind!

4.1.5.4 Activity 2

4.1.5.5 To listen for detail and respond appropriately [LO 1.6]

- Listen very carefully while your teacher reads the passage to you. It may help if you close your eyes and rest your head on your desk.
- Answer the questions by underlining the most appropriate answer supplied below:

QUESTIONS:

1. What enabled Tucker to smell the strawberries?

   (a) The strawberries were sweet.
   (b) Tucker’s window was open.
   (c) A breeze was blowing the sweet smell in Tucker’s direction.

2. Where was Tucker’s cottage located?

   (a) It was nearby the strawberry patch.
   (b) It was at the bottom of the oak tree in Shadyhanger.
   (c) It was attached to one of the oak tree branches.

Why was Tucker up so early?

- He was excited to go strawberry picking.
- It was a very warm day and he wanted to spend the day outside.
- Tucker had a lot on his mind and couldn’t sleep.
- What was Tucker’s initial (first) reaction when he saw the strawberries?

  (a) He picked one and began tasting it.
  (b) Tucker put on his thick gloves immediately.
  (c) His mouth started watering.

- How was the enormous strawberry by the hedge so different?

  (a) It was much larger than all the other strawberries.
  (b) The strawberry was too large to fit in his barrow.
  (c) Tucker pulled it, but it wouldn’t move.

Answer True or False

- The enormous strawberry had the ability to move.

- When Tucker first looked at the enormous strawberry, he felt very giddy.

- Tucker’s gloves fell off his hands when he was trying to pick the strawberry.

- Tucker wanted to return home because he felt tired.

- Tucker returned home with a berry-barrow full of strawberries.

4.1.6 Assessment

LEARNING OUTCOME 1: LISTENING The learner is able to listen for information and enjoyment, and respond appropriately and critically in a wider range of situations.

Assessment Standard
We know this when the learner:
1.6 listens for information in different kinds of texts (such as weather reports, school announcements, interviews), recalls main ideas or specific details, and responds appropriately.

LEARNING OUTCOME 4: WRITING The learner is able to write different kinds of factual and imaginative texts for a wide range of purposes.

Assessment Standard
We know this when the learner:
4.4 applies knowledge of language at various levels:
4.4.1 word level.

LEARNING OUTCOME 5: THINKING AND REASONING The learner is able to use language to think and reason, as well as to access, process and use information for learning.

Assessment Standard
We know this when the learner:
5.4 uses language to think creatively:
5.4.3 finds different ways to express ideas using a thesaurus and discusses nuances in meaning.

4.2.5 Assessment

LO 2
SPEAKING The learner will be able to communicate effectively in spoken language in a wide range of situations.
We know this when the learner:
2.1 interacts in an additional language:
2.1.2 takes part in a conversation on a familiar topic;
2.1.3 expresses an opinion and gives a reason for it;
2.3 uses additional language to communicate information:
2.3.4 describes the purpose of something (e.g. a familiar tool and what it is used for);
2.4 uses additional language creatively:
2.4.1 tells a story;
2.4.2 performs poems, songs and simple plays;
2.4.4 imagines and describes possibilities.

LO 5
THINKING AND REASONING The learner will able to use language to think and reason, and access, process and use information for learning.
We know this when the learner:
5.2 uses language for thinking:
5.2.7 expresses cause and effect;
5.2.8 expresses opinions and gives reasons for them;
5.2.9 discusses advantages and disadvantages;
5.3 collects and records information in different ways:
5.3.2 designs, draws and labels maps, plans, charts, graphs and diagrams;
5.4 transfers information in different ways:
5.4.3 uses information from a chart, graph or diagram to write a text.

LO 6
LANGUAGE STRUCTURE AND USE The learner will know and be able to use the sounds, words and grammar of the language to create and interpret texts.
We know this when the learner:
6.2 uses language forms and structures to communicate orally and in writing:
6.2.7 uses some adjectives as comparatives and superlatives (e.g. bigger than, more expensive than, the biggest, the most expensive);
6.2.2 uses subject-verb concord (e.g. I have / she has);
6.4 develops own vocabulary:
6.4.1 analyses word formation (e.g. drum, drummer).

4.2.6 Memorandum

ACTIVITY 1
1. Remind the learners what this means: study the word;
cover the word;
spell the word;
write the word;
check the word!
The answers are:
sketch; much; scratch; hatch; fetch; itch; duchess; ditch; catch; kitchen
2. Match each invention to its use. This is a very straightforward task. This is a vocabulary task and the words can be used for spelling.
   Apply the strategy to this task.
   Devise a method to teach this task so that every child is exposed to all the words and everyone participates.
   JUST FOR FUN!
   Find out about an inventor or invention and come and tell about it!
   (not to be assessed)
   This activity is ‘just for fun’ and to give the children an opportunity to communicate informally. Do not expect them to stand up in front of the class with this oral task. Allow them to work in their groups – very informally. Do not assess.

ACTIVITY 2
   Keep these LO’s in mind when working on this task. As before, this task in self-explanatory. The aim is to encourage the learners to state their opinions in a logical and confident way.
   Extend this activity: each learner brings an interesting news article to school, reads and tells the partner or group members what they have read. (Is it a good article; why; why was it chosen; what is it about?). Let them discuss how they could slant or change the angle of the article. Even better, let the group select one article out of all that were brought by their group members – let everyone try to angle the article differently.

A TREAT – FULL OF ADJECTIVES

Adjectives are very special because they make bland sentences descriptive and interesting to read. Once you are able to identify adjectives, you can use descriptive words in your story writing. You will have your readers spell-bound.

4.5.7 Activity 1

4.5.8 To use adjectives in a paragraph [LO 4.4.2]

Read the following passage:

A. Dad parked our car and we carried our belongings to the beach. It was crowded and we were hot. I longed to swim, surf and dig sandcastles, moats and tunnels in the sand.

Now compare it with:

B. Dad carefully parked our hired car and we eagerly carried our belongings to Plettenberg’s beach. It was extremely crowded and we were dripping with perspiration. I longed to swim, surf and dig enormous sandcastles, large moats and long tunnels in the soft, sunken sand.

Which paragraph is better?

Why?

Underline all the common nouns in B, in orange. Underline all the adjectives in B. in blue.

What do you notice about the position of the adjectives?

An adjective is a word which tells you more about a noun.

The adjective can be before the noun, e.g. A pretty girl.

The adjective can be separated from the noun, e.g. The girl is pretty.

Write a descriptive paragraph on one of the following:

It is my treat, for you . . .

“Oh Gran, all I would like is . . . “

I was very spoilt, that day!

PROVERBS

A proverb is a wise old saying that tells an important truth.

4.5.9 Activity 2

4.5.10 To learn to use proverbs [LO 6.6]

In the following, the proverbs are divided into two parts and the parts are jumbled. Write out each proverb correctly.
